CURTAIN TIME

Any good theatre, whether it be Broadway or the community playhouse, succeeds by dint of 90% perspiration and 10% inspiration. Someone has said, and correctly, that theatre is simply the organization of a thousand and one details—audience, actors, publicity, tickets, ushers, settings, lights, paintings, props, costumes—everything, in fact, from the auditorium to the decanter of port on the set. All this has been collected, rehearsed, prepared, organized and will be brought to a focal point at precisely 8:30 o'clock this evening. Furthermore, we trust, the group that brought these things together will be able to sustain and project these activities until the final curtain at about 11:00 P.M.

We have had many meetings, observed many deadlines, solved innumerable problems. All the working groups have been suffering the pangs of birth; the cast, the technicians, the promotion and production staffs stand alert; theatre is about to be born! The show is ready to start!

The electrician stands by waiting for the signal for the house lights. The actors are in place on the finished set. Backstage is organized and quiet. The stage manager is the leading man!

. . . the house lights dim . . .
Curtain!

. . . and we do hope you enjoy the play!

Seeing the shows is only half the fun of a community theatre!

If you have ever felt you could paint a better scene, design a better set or act a better role, obey that impulse; the only thing that's stopping you is YOU!

. . . here backstage, the doors are never locked, never closed to anyone. Our only password is "Are you interested in hard work?" If you can sweep the stage well, you're on your way to becoming a good actor!

Theatre is a social art; a piece of social engineering. The theatre in its beginning sprang from a communal base and it functions only as a collective activity. The theatre is the best means of bringing together the largest cross-section of a community into a democratic production unit. Whatever your talent may be, even if all that is offered is a pair of willing hands and a willing spirit, there is a place for you in Civic Theatre.

. . . OBEY THAT IMPULSE! SIGN ON THE DOTTED LINE!

THE CAST . . .

In professional theatre, an actor is only an actor. In community theatre, an actor is an actor only in his spare time. A quick inventory of our current cast turns up the following: Five housewives, one supermarket checker, four high school students, one insurance man, one salesman, one road builder, three Western Electric men, one heating man and a drama instructor. From such representative backgrounds come all the casts and crews of the Grove Players. This is Community Theatre!
